

Power Transmission

Strad supports power transmission projects. Our team knows the complexities associated with building lines in different environments.

We aim to always deliver trusted service alongside high quality matting and surface equipment rentals that are backed with an industry-leading safety program.

From the first call, Strad always aims to help. We are happy to consult and answer questions and provide flexible solutions to meet the scope of your project. At the front end of any project, we like to provide a consultative approach in recommending mat size, type, and quantity, that can result in exceptional project savings for power transmission customers. Whether you need down the line access or help protecting land from soil cross-contamination, we are here to help.

The Environment

The environment is a critical piece of the puzzle for all projects and our matting is designed to protect the ground underneath. A properly matted project not only ensures crews and equipment can get around with ease, but it also improves the reclamation process in the most sensitive of areas.

Mat Cleaning Services

When addressing the strictest of environmental concerns, Strad offers mat washing services at site to clean all sizes and varieties of mats. Using a mat washing system helps to stop the spread of noxious weeds or soil disease. Our cleaning system is designed for us to adjust the level of washing required to meet the project need or landowner concern.

Service Excellence – 24/7

We are proud of being one of the best in the business and our purpose is to go beyond expectations. Strad has the equipment and services ready to execute infrastructure projects. From efficient mobilization to demobilization to best-in-class onsite service, our team always works quickly to execute projects safely without cost overruns or time delays. And, our experienced Sales and Logistics teams are available around-the-clock to help with whatever other needs might arise.
